NOW IN MIAMI

Hotelier Alan Faena in front of Damien Hirst's Give Us Not Sleep, Forgetten, the gilded skeleton of a woolly mammoth that's on display in the garden of the Faena Hotel Miami Beach

THE FAENA FACTOR

Known for his all-white suits, signature fedora and the occasional cape, Alan Faena is not a man who subscribes to less is more. The Renaissance-style murals and gold-leaf columns in the lobby of his eponymous Miami Beach hotel let you know that right away (to say nothing of the gilded mammoth fossil encased in glass by the pool). The man is a visionary, a storyteller, a larger-than-life character, and this month's Alan Faena: Alchemy & Creative Collaboration ($60, Rizzoli) celebrates his accomplishments by giving us a glimpse of his properties and private homes, as well as his efforts with contemporaries such as Damien Hirst, Philippe Starck and Baz Luhrmann. The tome is an apropos record of a lavish life lived to its fullest. —Luis R. Rigual
