Nearby, hotelier Alan Faena has created an art wonderland in and around his exuberant namesake development, dubbed (with typical bravado) the Faena Hotel + Universe.

Damien Hirst's "Gone But Not Forgotten" — a gilded woolly mammoth skeleton encased in an oceanside vitrine — stands guard at the Faena Hotel, part of the property's fantastic art collection.

Faena Hotel

The large-scale artwork arranged around the property is irresistible, especially Damien Hirst's "Gone But Not Forgotten," a 24-k gilded woolly mammoth skeleton enclosed in a waterfront vitrine — it's become the hotel's unofficial mascot. Faena's partner, Ximena Caminos, is executive director of the Faena Art Center across the road, a purpose-built Kunsthalle, right now home to a site-specific installation, "Air X," by artist and fashion designer Jordan Betten.
