Miami Parties: Gucci Mane, Michèle Lamy, Rosario Dawson, Diplo & Many More Celebrate at Art Basel

Miami parties are generally... well, big, and during Art Basel, they're even bigger. The annual mega-event ends today, and, over the past six nights, there has been no shortage of soirees and social gatherings. Dior threw a massive post-show block party in the city's Allapattah neighborhood and Bottega Veneta took over a South Beach diner, wrapping it in gold. Yet there was much more afoot: Gucci and Snap hosted an evening for the director Harmony Korine, where Iggy Pop performed. Berluti creative lead Kris Van Assche held an intimate cocktail fete at the label's Miami Design District store. Diplo deejayed at a Dom Pérignon bash hosted by Alan Faena and Lenny Kravitz, where Rosario Dawson and even Sean Penn made appearances. All in all, some may have said it was a more mellow Basel than years past, but the good times still rolled. Especially for that guy who ate the $120,000 Maurizio Cattelan banana. Check out some of the week's best party pictures, below.
